National Minister of Education of Turkey has noted, that memory of victims of one of the most cruel crimes against humanity – the Khojaly genocide commemorated with deep grief in the brotherly country.

During the conversation, stressed the need to bring to the future generations information about the Khojaly genocide, as well as the importance of disclosures about this tragedy in textbooks of general education schools. Considering, that teaching of this subject demands special approach, the exchange of opinions concerning cooperation of the corresponding experts has been lead.