

---

Implements the formation of an internationally competitive system of higher education that ensures the transfer of scientific innovations to production, taking into account the needs of the economy, labor market and society at the level of higher education; training highly qualified specialists and scientific-pedagogical personnel according to individual educational programs.