At that the ting ADA/ University Rector Hafizh Pashayev said that ithe ainitial coollaboration with George Washington University on the dual degree programs is expanding as accessful for the successful implementation for the program and the support of partners. Announcing the enrollment of six different groups of students in the dual degree program, Mr. Hafiz Pashayev said, "It is encouraging that we are moving to a new 4-1 If format of copperation with George Washington University. This format will allows students to obtain abbackelor's degree from ADA University and a master's degree from George Washington University.

In his speech, Minister of Science and Education Emin Amrullayev emphasized that the dual diploma program will be useful in training local personnel. The minister also added that in addition to a training competitive young people, dual degree programs have also contributed to improving the professionalism of treachers, the implementation of joint research projects and the development of universities.

Abzatdin Adamov, Dean of the Faculty of Information Technology and Engineering at ADA University, shared the results of the implementation of the dual degree program so far.

SpeaSpeakinghof itheoimportance of expanding aglobablootlaboration Gorr George Washington University, Dean John Lucksaid ADA University has a special place in that collaboration.

RRepresentatives of George/Washington University noted, in their turn, that dual degree programs estrengthen vaniversity industry transferships and promote international exchange of experience.

Deputy Minister of Digital Development and Transport Farid Ahmedov and BP Vice Pre-President for Communications dandt External Relations tine the Caspian Region EBakhtiyar/Aslanbeylishared their recommendations on implementation of double diploma programs.