Teachers employed on termless contracts in the country's general education institutions and vocational schools, who want to be transferred from one district (city) to another, are taking a test on June 16-17.

A total of 2107 teachers qualified for the test, which will see them answer 60 questions, including 40 on subject programs of general education institutions, 10 on methodology and teaching strategy, and 10 on logic.

Test scores appear on a computer screen immediately after the test is completed.

Teachers who achieve the pass mark will be able to choose from among available vacant places.
